C. COMMISSION MATTERS

6. Commission Comments/Questions

Commissioner Moore:
I would like to ask that we acknowledge the difficulty of people calling in and not being quite familiar with some of our terminology i.e: the word Continuances. I got the feeling from reading a lot of emails coming in that the 1222 Funston Street project seems to be of concern to quite a few people but I am not certain that your explanation about it being continued for next week and should be taken off Consent next week would not even be heard. If there’s any way of helping people to really understand the subtleties a little better I think we would be doing many people and the public a great favor.

D. DEPARTMENT MATTERS

7. Director’s Announcements

AnMarie Rodgers:
Good afternoon, Commissioners. AnMarie Rodgers, Citywide Policy, here for Director Hillis who is out of the office this week. There were a couple of items that I wanted to share with you that the Department is engaged on and related to post COVID work. The first is that Director Hillis has told you about the role that he is playing in relation to the Mayor’s Recovery Task Force. He is co-chairing an Economic Development policy working group with Ann Taupier from the Office of Economic Development and Workforce. And this group has been developing policy recommendations focused on housing production and small business recovery. I wanted to let you know that they are planning on presenting ideas to the Economic Recovery Task Force in early August. So that is something that we can all look forward to seeing the benefits of that work.

And number two, I know that you are familiar with the City’s Shared Spaces program that Mayor Breed launched in May. I wanted to give you a little update on this one. This is the program that helps support neighborhood – particularly neighborhood businesses by providing additional public space for those business and community activities. This is the re-allocation of the public right of way – sidewalks, streets or part of streets in nearby public spaces, so that we can conduct neighborhood activities in a safe distance and with fresh air. You have probably seen restaurants pick up and other neighborhood activities that are occurring across the city. And at this point, we are very pleased to share that we have seen over 800 applications for these permits. Many city agencies are collaborating to make this program work to quickly adjust to the need. And also, I just want to let you know that Planning Department staff from both Current Planning and Citywide Policy are planning a key role on this work. Robin Abad of the Citywide Design Group is managing and coordinating the program for the city-at-large. And we also have Planning Department staff with the Office of Economic Workforce Development that are putting together an equity component for this program to ensure that there is full participation from people in all communities. So far, we have given some updates to the Small Business Commission and the Entertainment Commission. And if this Commission is interested, we could share more with you about these efforts in the future. That concludes my updates for you.

8. Review of Past Events at the Board of Supervisors, Board of Appeals and Historic Preservation Commission

Aaron Starr:
This week, the Land Use Committee considered the legislative amendment associated with the Market-Octavia Area Plan, also called The Hub. Commissioners, you heard this item on May 21st and recommended approval with modifications. The Commission’s modification directed the Department and the Board to pursue a Nexus study to establish community facility fees. In response to the Commission’s action, the Mayor introduced substitute legislation on June 9th with the new community facilities fee. During the Land Use hearing, there were only two sentiments expressed during public comment. The first was in support of the plan as approved by the Commission and encouraging supervisors to move forward with the legislation. The other was a request to put the legislation on hold until further equity work is complete. After public comment, there was not significant discussion on the proposed plan by the committee members. Instead, the Committee continued the item for one week to July 20th. This week, the Rules Committee held a hearing on the Mayor’s November ballot initiative called Save our Small Businesses or SOS. The initiative would, among other things, relax controls on certain destination type uses or uses not impacted by online competition such as general entertainment, movie theatres and art activities. It would also remove 311 neighborhood notification for any principally permitted use. This controls would have to stay in place for 3 years after which time the Board could change them. The Board would be able to make the controls less restrictive within the 3-year time period but not more restrictive. Supervisor Ronen had the most questions for staff who included representatives from the Mayor’s office, the Planning Department and OEWD.
Supervisor Ronen stated her support for the proposed – for most of the items in the ordinance. The question why the changes were not being done through the legislation process as all the changes could be done legislatively. She also said that the Mayor worked at the Board – had the Mayor worked with the Board, they would have been able to finetune the legislations that it was more community focused. Public comment was fairly split. Some callers supported having this done legislatively or through an emergency ordinance. Others supported the initiative and expressed skepticism that the Board could actually get such a far-reaching change like these through. I would note that it is not clear if any of the changes in the initiative could be done through an emergency ordinance as those are usually reserved for more restrictive controls. As it is just post hearing, the Mayor complaints initiative on the ballot without Board approval. At the end of the hearing the Committee filed the item and did not take any further action. And then finally this week, the Board considered Supervisor Peskin’s ordinance that would allow the expansion of the central police station in the North Beach and that passed its first read. And that’s all I have for you today.

Jonas P. Ionin, Commission Secretary:
There is no report from the Board of Appeals. The Historic Preservation Commission did meet yesterday remotely where they adopted a resolution centering preservation planning on Racial and Social Equity similar to what the Planning Commission had previously done. They also adopted a recommendation for approval for the Planning Code amendment on your agenda later today regarding continuation of certain non-conforming parking lots in the Mission Street Neighborhood Commercial Transit District. Finally, they adopted the resolution supporting the nomination of 1315 Waller Street.
