9. Commission Comments/Questions

   Commissioner Moore:
   I was reading the paper this morning, and something struck me as a very, very bright idea. I am not sure if it’s possible but somebody asked as to whether or not, with schools closing again in the uptick of the coronavirus, as to whether or not parklets could not be adapted to also being informal classrooms for smaller class of students. I thought it was a great idea. I would like to hear from somebody in Planning -- not today, perhaps but at some point, in the future as to whether or not that is even a feasible idea.

   Commissioner Tanner:
   Thank you, Commissioners, for the warm welcome and to staff for the welcome to the Commission. I was able to meet with leadership at the Planning Department this last week to get reacquainted, and I want to thank Director Hillis and others for making time and for making themselves available.

I also want to just encourage folks to rethink their Thanksgiving plans. I know myself, just this morning, myself and my household we decided to cancel the plans we had for Thanksgiving and just do Thanksgiving with our household. So, with everything that’s happening in the state and in our city, we really need to do our best to listen to our public health officials. We’ve listened to them pretty well and they got us pretty far. So, I just want to encourage folks to think about that for the safety of themselves but also the safety of others what their plans are for this Thanksgiving and even for the other winter holidays. So, it really broke my heart. I love Thanksgiving, but you can think about it, more leftovers for you for the whole weekend if you make enough on Thursday. So that’s the silver lining.

Commissioner Imperial:
Thank you. Just in the light of you know we’ve -- I know that this is a struggle for all of us in terms of the public hearings, but of course, whenever we have these kind of issues, I'm always worried about the public participation, and wondering if we could do some sort of - - whether before the hearing and practice especially on the live, on how we're going to -- because it can be frustrating – especially for me as well when we have these kinds of issues, and we may deter some comments. So just something to keep in mind, for the next hearings. I would be open to some sort of practice session before live session, something like that. So, that’s it.

D. DEPARTMENT MATTERS

10. Director’s Announcements

Rich Hillis, Planning Director:
Thank you, Jonas. Thank you, Commissioners, and we will follow up on the items you brought up. One, thank you for those that attended our staff brown bag lunch with Bill Gilchrist on Monday. I think it was a productive conversation. And thank you, Commissioner Moore for suggesting it. Certainly, it was well received by staff.

I want to let you know that Liz Watty, who I think all of you know and are familiar with her work, has accepted my offer to be the Director of Citywide Planning. She has been acting in that role. She was Acting Director -- I mean Deputy Director for seven years. She's been with the Department 15 years. Started actually as an intern and moved her way up to Planner I, II, and III and now Director. So, I'm sure you've recognized her work and we look forward to continuing to work with her. One of the first things and the current thing she's tackling and something she was tackling, even as Deputy Director, is expanding our services working with DBI, who we're working cooperatively with to expand our permit services both in-person to the extent that we can, and allowed by the Health Department, and online. As you know, our revenues continue to suffer both from the economic conditions and metering the allowable people being allowed into the Permit Center to file for permits. So, we will continue to update you and she will continue to work on that.

Bridget, during the Prop H informational, may bring this up as well, but I just wanted to let you know that the Mayor issued an Executive Directive this morning for -- related to implementation of Prop H focused on the city coming together in working to meet some of the timelines in Prop H. It has a 30-day timeline for us to issue permits for small businesses. So for us, the Department of Building Inspection, the Health Department, Fire Department, and others to work together to come up with a plan to make sure we can implement the voter mandates in Prop H, but you'll hear more about that from Bridget during the informational session. So, thank you, that concludes my report.

Commissioner Diamond:
Yes, I have a question for Director Hillis, and perhaps he's going to address this in conjunction with the Prop H discussion; but John King wrote a really interesting article in the Chronicle a few days ago about winterizing retail uses that we're seeing with entertainment and restaurants. And I was curious where the Economic Recovery team is in helping to promote and expedite whatever is necessary in order to allow for that winterization.

Rich Hillis, Planning Director:
Great question, Commissioner Diamond, and Robin Abad is here and will address that as part of the informational on Prop H, as will also address parklets.

Commissioner Diamond:
Great. Thank you.

11. Review of Past Events at the Board of Supervisors, Board of Appeals and Historic Preservation Commission

Aaron Starr, Manager of Legislative Affairs:
Good afternoon commissioners, Aaron Starr Planning Department Staff.

This week there were no items concerning the Planning Department at the Land Use Committee.

At the Full Board, the Board continued all but one appeal, the CEQA appeal for the proposed Whole Foods on Geary and Masonic.

The project proposes a new Whole Foods grocery store (with a restaurant and coffee shop) to move into a vacant 50,000 square foot retail space at the City Center shopping center.

Commissioners, you heard and approved this Formula Retail conditional use application on June 25, 2020.

The Appellant’s primary concerns were that the Department had underestimated the daily loading demand and, consequently, the potential air quality impacts of the project.

The project sponsor submitted a consultant-prepared loading demand analysis which confirmed the Department’s calculations of loading demand. The project sponsor and the appellant both submitted consultant-prepared air quality studies that reached different conclusions. The Department then directed its own air quality study and a peer review of these other studies. The Department’s analysis found air quality impacts to be well below significance thresholds.
During the hearing, public comment in support of the project was focused on the benefits that a grocery store would have at this location, and the desire to fill a long vacant space.

Public comments in support of the appeal were focused on the business practices of Whole Foods Market and its parent company Amazon, particularly the lack of worker benefits or labor union representation. Others cited the potential for traffic and air quality impacts.

One issue that came up during the hearing was that the Department rescinded its original Class 32 exemption and issued a commonsense exemption once the appeal was filed. This was based on new direction from the State Water Board that no longer allows a Class 32 to be issued when a project site is on the Cortese list, as this site is. During the hearing, Supervisor Peskin opined that rescinding the Class 32 should have invalidated the CU.

In issuing a commonsense exemption, the Department found that there was no possibility that a significant environmental impact could occur. Several supervisors were unconvinced of this citing the volume of trips to the site and the conflicting findings in the air quality reports. There was some discussion about labor practices by Whole Foods and Amazon, as well.

In the end, the Board unanimously upheld the CEQA appeal on the grounds that it could not be seen with certainty that there would not be any significant air quality impacts. The department awaits the final motion to determine whether this action results in implications to our CEQA review that are beyond this project. And that concludes my report for today. Thank you.

Rich Hillis, Planning Director:
Hey Jonas, I just wanted to clarify because I did not mean to offer Liz the job of Citywide Planning. She’s a Director of Current Planning. So, I misspoke and AnMarie is here obviously.

Jonas P. Ionin, Commission Secretary:
Thank you. I think everybody understood what you meant. Commissioners, the Board of Appeals did meet, and there’s actually a tardy report from the Assistant Zoning Administrator. He wanted to convey that on November 4, 2020, the Board of Appeals met and heard an appeal of a rear yard variance for 1222 Funston Avenue. This project involves a demolition of the garage at the front of the lot and addition of a new single-family dwelling at the front. The variance is required because the project does not maintain 25 percent between the new dwelling and an existing noncomplying structure at the rear of the lot. The Planning Commission heard an associated DR for this project on July 23rd and voted to not take DR. The Board of Appeals upheld the Zoning Administrator’s approval of the variance but required an additional condition that no further decks be added to the new building.

On November 18, 2020, the Board heard a jurisdiction request for 2622 Greenwich Street. This permit revised a previous permit that was heard by the Planning Commission as a DR on March 15, 2018. This permit legalized additional excavation that was performed by the permit holder without benefit of a permit. The excavation undermined the foundations of the adjacent properties and resulted in the issuance of notices of violation by the Department of Building Inspection. The jurisdiction request was sought because the requestor did not file an appeal within the 15-day appeal period. The Board found that the City did not cause the requester to miss the appeal period and denied the jurisdiction request. The Department of Building Inspection did note that the enforcement case remains open and they are working with the parties to achieve a resolution.

The Historic Preservation Commission met yesterday and they did adopt a recommendation for approval for landmark designation of the Japanese YWCA Issei Women's Building at 1830 Sutter Street for landmark designation. And they heard an informational presentation from staff regarding the Citywide Cultural Resources Survey update and were all very excited that this is gaining momentum and staff will be actually conducting surveys throughout the city.
