9. Commission Comments/Questions

Commissioner Moore:
I wanted to ask the Department as to whether or not the group that is looking at Social and Racial Equity has been looking at the 2021 Inclusion Equity Bill issued by the State of California. There is one called ACA1 and SCA1. That has been coming the forefront and I would like us to stay on top of it in order to inform ourselves what is being discussed and under what particular subject headings. There was another bill I heard about and that is called the Social Housing Bill referenced as AB387. As we are looking for other tools and finding financing for inclusionary housing or affordable housing, I’d like to see as to whether or not that applies in any form or shape to us here in San Francisco. That is all. Thank you.

Commissioner Imperial:
Thank you, Commissioner Moore and President Koppel. I have more of a follow up to Director Hillis regarding the SB330 as to, if, what's the status of that and when, if ever we can have a presentation or some sort of report in terms of the local implementation of the SB330 especially when it comes to continuances. So, I know if perhaps, if there’s a timeline when the Planning Commission can have some sort of presentation on the SB330 local implementation, that would be great. That’s all.

Rich Hillis, Planning Director:
On both those items, as we do, every year, we’re tracking the bills. Many again are kind of related to housing issues. So, you know, it’s a little tricky because these works their way through the process, some just fall off and get amended significantly. So, I’m happy to schedule in the next couple of weeks or months to have a discussion or just to give you a briefing on those bills.

Commissioner Imperial:
Just my point is these, since we’ve heard comments about the definition or clarification of continuances and we continue to have continuances, I think it’s good to have, an immediate clarification on that so that we are you know implementing the SB330 properly for our jurisdiction.

Commissioner Tanner:
Thank you. I just want to bring up something we’ve talked about before but with continuing application for cannabis dispensaries. I still remain concerned about the overall inflow; it’s certainly great to see empty store fronts becoming not empty anymore and to be providing more equity in the geographic distribution of cannabis dispensaries, but I am concerned that, you know just looking back in history, we’re kind of repeating ourselves. So, I don’t want to equate cannabis with cigarettes, but cigarettes used to be sold everywhere and now we have rules in the city that [inaudible] diminished the number of locations where cigarettes are sold. Same thing with alcohol sales, we have controls trying to diminish the amount of alcohol sales in locations. I just wonder, at what point, are we as the Commission and if anybody on the Board is thinking about having actual caps for different areas of the city. We can distribute to equity and still have so many. Those challenges in the industry in terms of saturation and, then also, I just worry at some point we'll be kind of rolled back and telling folks they can't renew their business license or they can't have their business anymore because now we decide they're out of fashion and it's too many in the city. It's hard to make a decision just on each cannabis dispensary. We can certainly look at the merits of it, the situation of that building, its location, its proximity to other locations but I still feel at a loss for thinking kind of comprehensively about the distribution of cannabis dispensaries across the city and I don't know if other Commissioners share my concern, but I guess I'm looking, Director, to understand what we can do at this level? You know, understanding Obviously, the Board would have to create caps or any other type of refinement to the location that dispensaries can be allowed. So would love to hear if other Commissioners are interested in this and from the Director what we can do on this from the Commission.

Commissioner Imperial:
Thank you, Commissioner Tanner for bringing that up. That's also what I think we've had that discussion before and we have brought that up in terms of the racial and social equity of the make-up of the cannabis retail and even with the Office of Cannabis itself the question about equity. You know, I think right now, we have a cap of about four applicants that can establish a cannabis retail and I think that's a good question for Office of Cannabis and also for us to look into the racial and social equity make-up of it and what kind of cannabis retail are we -- you know. I know in planning, we always talk about the use and not the user, but if we're talking about, you know, a big corporation will be that something is considered as a form of equity even though we have scattered it somewhere. So it's a good type for us to look into it, but yeah, I do share your sentiment, Commissioner Tanner.

Rich Hillis, Planning Director:
Commissioner Tanner, just a follow up too, we can certainly schedule a time to talk to you all. Obviously, the rules are relatively new on cannabis retail, but there are limits on where retailers can go. There's the green zone that's kind of in response to the 300--the radius around schools, you know, they're kind of educational facilities and then there's the clustering rules as well, which have limited where retailers can go and so we can certainly show you where they have gone and where applications are and invite the Office of Cannabis back too to talk about this globally again.

Commissioner Tanner:
Thank you, Director Hillis.

Commissioner Moore:
I do share Commissioner Tanner's concern that particularly during this time with the large vacancies and sensitive commercial corridors that permitting too many of them would produce what I call the Starbucks phenomenon. Many, many, many, many years ago, everybody thought Starbucks would be the cure for urbanity and it's so much went a different way. I'm just going to leave it at that because we're not supposed to have discussions about something which is not on the agenda. I'll leave it at that.

D. DEPARTMENT MATTERS

10. Director's Announcements
Rich Hillis, Planning Director:
Good afternoon Commissioners, again, just two items: one I sent an e-mail earlier today about a ribbon cutting that you can stream, it’s next Friday, or next Thursday actually at 5. It's the first installment of the Excelsior Street Scape Pilot Project which I think many of you have heard about from being a commissioner. I think Commissioner Tanner, you worked on when you were here in the Department. There’s a temporary public space art installation that’s being installed at Mission and Geneva that we partnered with Youth Art Exchange as a part of and comes out of our Excelsior Mission structure. So, take a look at that, and attend if you can.

I also wanted to let you know as we move closer to the yellow tier, many of our staff are receiving vaccines, we are working with the Permit Center staff and DBI staff to plan for expanded in-person services at the Permit Center in transitioning from, you know, the current process to over-the-counter to in-person services. So, we’ll be updating you on that more in the coming weeks and that's all I have. Thanks.

11. Review of Past Events at the Board of Supervisors, Board of Appeals, Environmental Review Officer Hearing and Historic Preservation Commission

Lisa Gibson, Environmental Review Officer:
Good afternoon, Commissioners.

I am Lisa Gibson, Environmental Review Officer. I’m here today to report on a decision I issued pertaining to an appeal of a prior environmental determination I made regarding the Recreation and Parks Department’s Observation Wheel. I’m presenting this to you because Chapter 31 of the Administrative Code requires that an oral report on this type of decision be presented to the Planning Commission at the next possible meeting after such decision.

As you may be aware, the observation wheel is part of RPD’s Golden Gate Park 150th Anniversary Celebration project. The wheel is located in the Music Concourse, which is an Article 10 landmark and is located in the National Register and California Register Golden Gate Park Historic District. It was originally proposed to be in operation for one year and was recently proposed to be in operation for a total of five years.

Beck in December of 2019, the Planning Department issued a Class 1 and 3 categorical exemption for the original project pursuant to the California Environmental Quality Act. This finding was based on substantial evidence in the record that the project fit within classes of projects that the state legislature determined could not have a significant effect on the environment. Further, we found that no exceptions were triggered that would make the project ineligible for a categorical exemption. At that time, operation of the wheel was proposed for one year, although our determination was not dependent on the duration of operation.

On February 9, 2021, the Department determined that the proposed four-year extension would not constitute a substantial modification to the project that requires reevaluation pursuant to Section 31.08(i) of Chapter 31 of the SF Administrative Code. There was no information in the record demonstrating that the originally approved project met the definition of a substantial modification as defined in the code.
On February 19, 2021, Katherine Howard of the San Francisco Group of the Sierra Club, filed an appeal of the Planning Department’s no substantial modification determination to the ERO.

I’ll note that this was the first time such an appeal has ever been filed. Appeals of this type are allowed pursuant to Admin Code Sect 31.08(j). As noted therein, such an appeal is not an appeal of a CEQA decision under that state law. In addition, such appeals shall not delay or suspend any permit approval or other discretionary approval authorizing the change in the project or suspend any construction activity.

Returning to the subject of my report on this particular appeal, On March 11, 2021, I held a public hearing for the appeal that challenged the department’s no substantial modification determination for the observation wheel. The appeal primarily raised concerns related to the nighttime lighting of the wheel. The appellant argued that an additional four years of operation would have a significant impact on historic resources, biological resources, and other environmental topics.

After carefully considering the appeal, on March 25th I issued a memorandum that upheld the Department’s determination that the revised project does not constitute a substantial modification and that there is no new information demonstrating that the originally approved project no longer qualifies for the exemption.

The Department determined that the project met the Secretary of the Interior Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties and determined that impacts related to historic resources would be less than significant. The project required a certificate of appropriateness application which was approved by the Historic Preservation Commission.

Regarding biological resources, the Department reviewed biological assessments that were completed for past projects that share similar characteristics to the wheel. Based on substantial evidence, the department determined that the nighttime lighting of the wheel would have less than significant impacts on biological resources, including migratory and nesting birds.

That concludes my report and I am happy to take any questions. Thank you.

E. GENERAL PUBLIC COMMENT

SPEAKERS: Georgia Schuttish – Mixed alterations in Noe Valley Ozzie Rohm – Commissioners, we’ve been bringing up the need for an informational presentation on SB 330 and its implications on hearings relating to approval of development projects. The City needs to have a clear policy on what constitutes a continuance and what type of continuance will count towards the maximum of 5 that’s been mandated by this legislation. Are continuances called by project sponsors or Planning counted and what types of projects qualify for SB 330 mandates? Are projects that filed for permits prior to when this law went into effect grandfathered when it comes to their continuances? We urge you to ask the Planning Department to work with the City Attorney’s office to come up with a local implementation of SB 330. Thanks, Ozzie Rohm for San Francisco Land Use Coalition
