MAYOR MARK FARRELL ON UNITED STATES
ATTORNEY GENERAL'S LAWSUIT

"This morning, United States Attorney General Jeff Sessions came into our state and attacked our values, our policies and our people. In response to this stunt, I want my message to be clear to Attorney General Sessions: your threats will not change who we are. They will not deter our mission. They will not shake our beliefs.

Like California, San Francisco is a place of Sanctuary. We are a place where everyone can strive to create a brighter future for themselves and their families. Our statutes are in compliance with federal law. If the federal government believes there is a need to detain a criminal, we will honor a criminal warrant, as we always have, and we always will.

We know that this is not about enforcing federal law. This is about attacking communities and residents who do not adhere to the government's fear-based and divisive agenda. This administration believe in States' rights when it is convenient for their cause. They support individual rights when it fits their political agenda.

But we will not be intimidated. No matter how hard the federal administration tries to export their politics of fear, we will remain a city of love and compassion. We will remain a Sanctuary City.”

MAYOR MARK FARRELL AND HEALTH DIRECTOR
BARBARA GARCIA ANNOUNCE EXPANSION OF CITY'S CONSERVATORSHIP BEDS

Public-private partnership doubles in county capacity for residents dealing with serious mental health challenges

San Francisco, CA – Mayor Mark Farrell and Health Director Barbara Garcia today announced the opening of the San Francisco Healing Center, a major expansion of services for residents experiencing serious mental illness in the city.

“The mental health problems on our streets are one of the biggest issues facing San Francisco,” said Mayor Farrell. “By more than doubling our conservatorship beds through our San Francisco Healing Center, we can provide real results for those with severe mental illness, along with our residents and businesses”

The new center, located at St. Mary's Medical Center will, add 54 new conservatorship beds to the city's system of mental health care, more than doubling the current number in the county.

These locked psychiatric beds serve a critical need for clients who are placed on conservatorship and are too ill to live independently but do not require acute hospital care. Expanding the supply of these beds in San Francisco will increase the county's capacity to serve people with serious mental illness.

The clients who will be cared for include people who are gravely disabled due to mental illness or incompetent to stand trial. Currently, these clients can wait for placement in out-of-county facilities, acute care hospitals or jail.

"With this new program, we will be able to bring people home, and to provide treatment to San Franciscans in their own community," said Barbara Garcia, San Francisco Health Director. "This is a first-of-its-kind effort that helps to address some of the pressing needs of our mental health care and hospital systems. This new program is based in a recovery model providing skills and support for those needing stabilizing mental health services."

The San Francisco Healing Center will begin serving clients on March 12. San Francisco found a way to increase services by identifying space in a private hospital to meet the city's needs and combining funding from public and private sources.

The program will be run by Crestwood Behavioral Health. Partners include the City and County of San Francisco, which is funding the program and is responsible for placements and care for the seriously mentally ill.

The San Francisco Department of Public Health (DPH) is the lead agency, project coordinator and will provide program oversight. Dignity Health, the non-profit hospital system, is contributing to the program toward cost of space and renovations at St. Mary's Hospital, where the program is located. UCSF Health contributed $1 million to the cost of renovation and programming. The San Francisco Healing Center will cost $5 million per year for DPH to operate 40 beds. An additional 14 beds are available for other providers to purchase for their clients.

"We are pleased to welcome the San Francisco Healing Center to St. Mary's Medical Center," said Lloyd Dean, President and CEO of Dignity Health. "Our partnership with the City and the San Francisco Hospital Council is an important step forward to address the long term issues with mental health. We must work together to support the health and well-being of all San Franciscans."

Conservatorship is a form of civil commitment established by a judge upon finding that an individual is gravely disabled due to serious mental illness and cannot take care of his/her basic needs for food, clothing or shelter. Serious mental illnesses are treatable, and with proper treatment and management, people with these disorders can experience recovery.

"The San Francisco Healing Center shows a collective commitment to recovery and will help those with mental health issues return to productive roles in society," said Patricia Blum, Ph.D., Executive Vice President of Crestwood Behavioral Health. "This supportive process is at the core of everything we do at Crestwood, and we know from decades of experience that it works."

“This center will play a critical role in expanding the safety net of mental health care in San Francisco and enable patients to successfully transition between a hospital setting and their communities,” said Mark Laret, president and chief executive officer of UCSF Health. “We’re proud to support this center, as part of our ongoing partnership with Dignity Health, and look forward to the successes of the patients who will receive care in this facility. This collaboration is a model of health care working at its best to serve the people who need it most.”

The 54 new beds for conserved mentally ill clients at the San Francisco Healing Center will add to the existing 47 such beds at the Mental Health Rehabilitation Center (MHRC) located in the Behavioral Health Center on the campus of Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital.

Before the opening of the new beds, clients who needed to be conserved when the MHRC was full were either placed out of county, waited in the hospital or in jail. When clients are served out of county, it is a hardship on them and their loved ones. When clients are waiting in the hospital, it creates a log jam that is felt throughout the system – inpatient psychiatry beds remain full, causing a back-up at psychiatric emergency services. When clients are waiting in jail, they are in an environment that is not conducive to their recovery. With the new beds, the system will have more capacity, patient flow will improve and people will be treated in the most appropriate settings.

The San Francisco Healing Center will provide comprehensive programming for recovery and wellness. The program includes therapeutic care and peer support and a wide variety of evidence-based treatments, recreational activities and a structured daily schedule, designed to support and restore clients to enable them to live more independently in the community. The center will feature 24-hour nursing and psychiatric care, highly trained staff and peer providers, group and individual counseling, medical care, community linkages, family visits, recreational and wellness activities, individual recovery plans and discharge planning.

 PRESS RELEASE *****

MAYOR FARRELL, SUPERVISOR JANE KIM AND COMMUNITY LEADERS BREAK GROUND ON 100 PERCENT
AFFORDABLE HOUSING SITE FOR HOMELESS VETERANS AND LOW-INCOME FAMILIES

Upon completion project will be named in honor of late Mayor Edwin M. Lee

San Francisco, CA –Mayor Mark Farrell, Supervisor Jane Kim, the Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure (OCII) Executive Director Nadia Sesay joined public and private partners today to break ground on a new 100 percent affordable housing development at 1150 Third Street in Mission Bay.

During the ceremony Mayor Farrell dedicated the site to former Mayor Edwin Lee, and proclaimed that upon completion, the building will be named after him.

“Today we are doing right by our veteran residents and lending a hand to struggling low-income families who deserve to call our city home,” said Mayor Mark Farrell. “This project moves us one step closer to bringing chronic veterans homelessness in our city to an end and I can think of no better tribute than to dedicate this new development to Mayor Lee, a man who spent his life uplifting those in need.”

The 1150 Third Street development is a partnership between the Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure, Swords to Plowshare, a nonprofit veteran service agency, and Chinatown Community Development Center (CCDC). Additionally, sf.citi provided philanthropic support to initiate pre-development activities.

“This building will house 62 formerly homeless veterans and 56 low-income families with on-site supportive services,” said Supervisor Kim. “This isn’t by chance or luck - this is the result of vigorous advocacy for increased affordability and strong partnerships between the City and our private and nonprofit allies. I fully commit to continue such partnerships into the future. I would like to applaud Chinatown Community Development Center and Swords to Plowshares for the great work they have done to make this project a reality.”

Slated for completion in November 2019 the development will have 119 affordable rental for formerly homeless veterans and low-income families. The site will also include a large community room, computer lab, teen community space, children’s play space and on-site supportive services for its veteran residents.

“This is an incredible time for San Francisco as Mission Bay continues to be a driving force in creating high functioning, well-designed affordable housing,” said OCII Executive Director Nadia Sesay. “With these new homes our veterans and families will continue to thrive in our city.”

The development is an important next step in the City’s efforts to reduce the number of veterans and families facing homelessness in San Francisco and Mayor Lee’s goal to build and rehabilitate 30,000 housing units in San Francisco by 2020.

“I love our partnership with Swords to Plowshares and it is so heartwarming to have sustainable affordable housing where veterans and families do not have to worry about losing their homes,” said Rev. Norman Fong, Executive Director of CCDC. “What great synergy!”

"We are grateful to the late Mayor Lee who made this plot of land available to Swords to Plowshares and Chinatown Community Development Center," said Michael Blecker, Swords to Plowshares' Executive Director. "Collaborative efforts to ending veteran homelessness have led to a significant reduction in the number of chronically homeless veterans. This project is another critical step to getting our most vulnerable veterans housed."

The Mission Bay Project Area has seen many uses in its past, from warehouses and industrial facilities to the former Southern Pacific Railyard. Today it is one of San Francisco’s newest mixed-use, transit oriented developments, and upon completion will have approximately 6,400 housing units, of which 1800 are affordable. The project at 1150 Third Street in Mission Bay will be OCII’s fourth fully affordable housing project in Mission Bay South, with another 868 affordable units in the pipeline.

 PRESS RELEASE *****

MAYOR MARK FARRELL, MERCY-RELATED CALIFORNIA, AND SUPERVISOR MALIA COHEN BREAK GROUND ON HISTORIC SUNNYDALE MIXED-INCOME DEVELOPMENT

San Francisco, CA— Mayor Mark Farrell, Supervisor Malia Cohen, Mercy-Related, and community members broke ground today on the phased redevelopment of the Sunnydale public housing sites, part of the City's HOPE SF neighborhood transformation initiative that is being implemented by the Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development.

Once completed, the re-envisioned Sunnydale community will be a mixed-income, service-enriched community, affordable to more than 1,500 low-income and middle-class families, and developed according to the non-displacement principles of the City's HOPE SF initiative. HOPE SF represents a comprehensive commitment to replace and transform San Francisco's public housing communities into vibrant, mixed-income communities without displacement of existing residents. In addition to Sunnydale, HOPE SF includes the redevelopment of Potrero Hill, Alice Griffith and Hunters View communities, each well under way.

“The commitment to the families of Sunnydale shows that San Francisco is delivering on our promise to ensure all of our residents, especially our low-income families, share in the prosperity of our City,” said Mayor Farrell. “After years of hard work by Mayor Lee, community partners and city leaders, today we take a significant step in providing affordable, inclusive, and high quality homes to existing families in Sunnydale. This is an historic rebuild of vibrant mixed-income communities without displacement of residents.”

Backed by significant local funding, including the $310 million affordable housing bond passed by voters in 2015, HOPE SF gives residents first priority in placement of new units and replaces 1:1 each former public housing unit, ensuring the stability of long-term communities.

“Today, we stand tall for the generations of Sunnydale residents who have waited on unfulfilled promises for decades,” said Supervisor Malia Cohen. “Beautiful, safe, inclusive homes for our most underserved communities have transformative long-term impacts on all children, families and neighborhoods. This is an incredible and promising moment for the future of our City.”

“Generations and generations of families have waited for this day, telling me: ‘it’s not going to happen,’” said long-time Sunnydale resident community leader Ruth Jackson. “But today we have given our families hope where little existed, and life where there was constant strife.”

Today’s ground-breaking in Sunnydale marks the commencement of the development of new roadways, sidewalks, transit connections, and utilities in a regular street grid pattern that will reconnect the communities with their surrounding neighborhoods for the first time. Additionally, Sunnydale will include significant new space for retail and supportive social services, as well as a state-of-the-art community and recreation center.

“From our perspective, partnering with residents to transform Sunnydale is first and foremost an investment in people,” says Doug Shoemaker, President of Mercy Housing California. “Beyond just developing new homes, we see one of our principal roles as helping the City and residents of Sunnydale achieve fundamental aspirations—educate our children, keep our families safe, and share in the economic prosperity that surrounds Sunnydale.”

“Sunnydale HOPE SF continues our longstanding commitment to mixed income housing and the creation of a true neighborhood, with services and amenities for all,” said Related California CEO William Witte.

HOPE SF is a community-driven partnership with residents and city agencies leading the transformation of the City’s most distressed public housing communities. The San Francisco Housing Authority is an anchor partner supporting the development and resident engagement processes.

“This is no longer the ‘swamps’ of Sunnydale or ‘that part of the Valley’. This is our community, our San Francisco. Today we move forward and stand united as residents, community leaders, developers, and city partners in repairing a historic wrong of public policy,” said Theo Miller, HOPE SF Director.

MAYOR MARK FARRELL ON PRESIDENT TRUMP'S THREAT AGAINST CALIFORNIA SANCTUARY CITIES

"If President Trump believes threatening Sanctuary Cities with federal action will somehow coerce us into betraying the trust and cooperation of our immigrant communities, he is sorely mistaken.

The Supreme Court and other federal courts have ruled that enforcement of immigration laws in this country are the responsibility of the federal government and not local jurisdictions.

San Francisco is and always will be a Sanctuary City. We are a Sanctuary City because we know our city is safer when law-abiding residents, regardless of immigration status, are active members of our community.

The President's declaration to abdicate the federal government's obligation is more of the same from this administration, once again choosing politics over public safety."

Subject:  STATEMENT  MAYOR MARK FARRELL ON PROPOSED REPEAL OF FEDERAL CLEAN POWER PLAN

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Tuesday, February 27, 2018

Contact: Mayor's Office of Communications, 415-554-6131

 STATEMENT *****

MAYOR MARK FARRELL ON PROPOSED REPEAL OF FEDERAL CLEAN POWER PLAN

“The proposal to repeal the Clean Power Plan is the federal administration’s latest act in a long series of misguided assaults against the environment. This is not a trivial matter—the proposed repeal would delay our national transition to cleaner energy and could result in thousands of premature deaths and hospitalizations from exposure to pollution.

Clean energy is the only future for our planet. The health of people across the globe and right here in San Francisco depend on taking aggressive action on climate change.

San Francisco as a climate leader is boldly committed to reaching 100 percent renewable electricity by 2030. We will continue to serve as an example that environmental stewardship and economic growth can go hand-in-hand. I join leaders from every sector and over 230 U.S. mayors in opposing the proposed repeal.”

Note: A rally and press conference with Mayor Farrell, Tom Steyer, environmental, health, youth, and elected officials and leaders is scheduled for tomorrow, February 28, 2018, at 11 AM on the Civic Center Plaza facing steps of San Francisco City Hall.

The event will also be livestreamed on YouTube by SFGovTV at <https://youtu.be/bhxkixs-xmE>.

 PRESS RELEASE *****

MAYOR MARK FARRELL AND SUPERVISOR JANE KIM INTRODUCE LEGISLATION TO CREATE THOUSANDS OF NEW JOBS AND HOMES IN CENTRAL SOMA DISTRICT

San Francisco, CA – Mayor Mark Farrell and Supervisor Jane Kim today introduced the Central SoMa Plan, a legislative package that will create 40,000 jobs and add 7,000 new housing units to the neighborhood south of Market Street.

“We are putting forth a bold and vision for this neighborhood—one that will include lasting benefits for current and future residents,” said Mayor Farrell. “If we want San Francisco to continue to flourish as a city, we need to plan our growth in a responsible, sustainable fashion. The Central SoMa Plan will establish a community where our residents and families can work, live, shop and play.”

Of the 7,000 new housing units created under the plan, more than 33 percent will be permanently affordable and the legislation will generate $500 million for local and regional transit improvements.

Additionally, the Central SoMa Plan will create multiple acres of new and rehabilitated parks and recreation open spaces and will include funding for investments in air quality improvements and green energy programs. It will result in $2 billion in public benefits for the neighborhood while generating $1 billion in revenue for the City's General Fund.

"I am very proud that the Central SoMa plan sets a new standard for the City with 33 percent affordability throughout and zero loss of any existing arts or manufacturing jobs," said Supervisor Jane Kim. "It will be the first new area plan with an eco-district that implements Vision Zero from its inception, designed with robust community benefits such as parks and recreational open spaces for our entire city to enjoy for decades to come."

The Central SoMa Plan, which has been under development and community discussion for the last six years, incorporates the neighborhood between 2nd Street and Sixth Street, and from Townsend Street to Market Street. The vision of the plan is to create an economically, socially and environmentally sustainable neighborhood that benefits local residents.

"The Central SoMa Plan is the result of more than six years of collaborative public engagement," said John Rahaim, Director of the San Francisco Planning Department. "Our approach to this process established a dialogue that allowed us, through the community's collective insight, to respect the history and successes of the neighborhood without compromising the prosperity of future generations. I believe this plan will serve as a model for accommodating growth and providing public benefits while still achieving social, economic and environmental sustainability."

The Central SoMa Plan will be initiated at the Planning Commission on March 1, with additional hearings scheduled throughout March. The Board of Supervisors will review the plan at the Land Use Committee in April, and the full Board is scheduled to hear the plan this summer.

 PRESS RELEASE *****

MAYOR MARK FARRELL, ASSEMBLYMEMBER PHIL TING AND SUPERVISOR SANDRA LEE FEWER ANNOUNCE
FUNDING EFFORTS TO PROVIDE UNIVERSAL REPRESENTATION FOR DETAINED NORTHERN CALIFORNIA IMMIGRANTS

San Francisco, CA – Mayor Mark Farrell, Assemblymember Phil Ting and Supervisor Sandra Lee Fewer today announced funding efforts to provide universal legal representation for all detained immigrants facing deportation in Northern California.

“As the Mayor of San Francisco, I will not back down from fighting against the spiteful and oppressive policies of the federal administration,” said Mayor Farrell. “San Francisco and the State of California must work together to keep our hardworking families from being heartlessly broken apart by these destructive policies. We will stand up together to protect our residents when they are being attacked.”

Mayor Farrell and Assemblymember Ting are partnering together to advocate for $7 million in state funding, which will pay for legal representation for every immigrant currently detained in Northern California. A majority of detained immigrants go before a judge without legal representation.

“It’s great to see that the $45 million allocated in last year’s state budget strengthened legal services for immigrants throughout our state,” said Assemblymember Ting. “I know the need continues to be great, and I look forward to the City’s input as we put together another state spending plan in the coming months.”

With immigrants facing unprecedented harassment from the Trump Administration, Mayor Farrell, in partnership with Supervisor Fewer, is also increasing funding support for community based organizations that are on the front line serving local residents.

“We will always support our immigrant communities who came to this country in search of a better life,” said Supervisor Fewer. “Their day-to-day lives have been filled with fear, simply because this President wants to score cheap political points. We will not step aside and allow this to happen. We are standing up, fighting back, and putting our money where our values are.”

“We refuse to stand by and let families get ripped apart because of a cruel and backwards-thinking Federal Administration,” said Supervisor Hillary Ronen. “The more they attack our San Francisco communities, the harder we will fight to protect them. And we will win. By expanding access to legal representation to all immigrants, we are keep immigrant families safe and we are standing against bigotry and xenophobia. We will not be bullied into submission.”

The City will spend an additional $3.5 million annually on legal defense services, bringing the total annual amount to $11.1 million. That represents a 236 percent increase from spending levels two year prior.

Of the $3.5 million in additional funding, $2.5 million will be allocated toward the San Francisco Immigration Legal Defense Collaborative (SFILDC) and the San Francisco Immigrant Legal and Education Network (SFILEN).

"When we stand together, we are powerful," said Laura Victoria Sanchez, Director for the CARECEN SF's Immigration Legal Program, which is part of both the SFILEN and SFILDC. "Our 21 partners through SFILEN and SFILDC are at the front lines of responding to these attacks on our immigrant communities. We welcome this additional support to defend the legal rights of our community."

An additional $1 million will go toward the budget of the Public Defender's Office.
